

Practical joke - Pickled arm.

Stories

College

Bloomington

Fall, 1961

124

There was a girl who lived in the dormitory who was rather quiet and shy. Her roommate and a couple of other girls thought they would play a practical joke on her one day. One of the girls brought home an arm from the anatomy department, and they put it in the timid girl's bed. That night her roommate waited and waited to hear a scream or something, but she never heard anything. She woke up the next morning and found that the girl's hair had turned completely white from fright.

Indianapolis